

Facts and Figures

Consocium GmbH

Company

Consocium is the professional network of independent top management consultants. Founded in January 2016, Consocium brings highly qualified consultants together with clients requiring external support for their projects – flexibly, individually and quickly. To find the right experts for each project, Consocium uses a matching algorithm combined with personal recommendations from the network. Companies of all sizes work with Consocium to staff their projects, including large corporations as well as SMEs and consulting firms. For freelance consultants, Consocium is an effective sales channel and a strong community that facilitates collaboration, support and professional development. Founders and General Managers are the former McKinsey consultant Elena Keilmann and the former Booz & Co consultant Christoph Rammé.
